Win diamonds app download

Malarie Gokey/Digital Trends Looking for a cool new app to download? The choice is huge, so we've overheadEd Google Play, iTunes and other app stores to find the best that saves you time. Here are the apps that we think you should sign off this week. Slide is a good-looking small 3D camera app for iOS that breathes some life into your photos. You just need to take a photo using the app while you move your device smoothly in horizontal motion. When a photo is taken, simply tap on the photo theme and see how it turns into a video or GIF, add depth to the image, and it really would pop. The result is easy to share on Instagram, iMessage, Twitter, Facebook and other social networks. The app will cost you $1.99, and great for iPhone owners who can't use Apple's Live Photos feature, which is only on the iPhone 6S. iTunes It's hard to keep track of all your photos, and Everalbum wants to help with that. The app provides secure unlimited backups of photos in the cloud and drags photos stored on your phone and social media accounts. The free tier stores them at high resolution, but you'll need a premium version of the app to save them in full resolution. Photos are categorized after an event, or you can rent albums yourself, and you can invite others to upload your own photos. A similar feature has just been added to Google Photos. The premium version of Everalbum costs $9.99 per month, with the option of have your favorite photos printed and sent to your home. Everalbum works in many languages, such as English, German, Italian and Arabic. iTunes Windows digital server, Cortana, has officially come to Android and iOS. Cortana, built into your Windows Phone and Windows 10 desktop, manages and displays appointments, tracks packages, gives you flight information, weather, and more. You'll need a Microsoft account, and if you're already using a Windows 10 device, Cortana will now sync your data to your smartphone. In Android, you can say Hey Cortana to access your voice assistant from your home screen and in the app. If you're late for a call, Cortana will push it into a Windows 10 PC and you can answer it via SMS to the caller without having to pick up the phone. It's similar to the experience on iOS and Android with Siri and Google Now; But the more competition, the better. iTunes Google Play If you are in a stylish, simple puzzle game that passes time, the Loop will be right in your street. The idea is to close the pattern to make a certain shape on the screen, giving the impression that you are complementing the circuit. It's easy to play, but really satisfying because the game doesn't say what form to do, pushing to play around with tapping pieces. It's relatively straight and addictive, and supposedly endless levels should go for a while. iTunes Google Play If you make a lot of phone calls, especially for work, you may want to view HappyID. When You get a call, the app displays exactly who you're talking to by displaying contact notes and other key information. This may include the company they work for, their title and so on. Granted, you'll need to fill out this information when you first add a contact to your phone, but it could be worth the effort. The app can display a notification when the call ends and remind you to take some quick notes about the conversation. It syncs with Evernote, which is handy, and also has Android Wear support. Recommendations from Google Play editors This is 2019, and no matter how much your overly hipster friend wants to tweet differently, mobile apps are as much a part of our lives as the ever-increasing price of your morning latte. With more than 2 million apps you can choose, the technological possibilities are limitless -- but your precious phone battery certainly isn't. So how do you know which ones you really need to have? If your idea of fun is to try out each app until you find the perfect combination to meet your daily needs, go ahead. For those who don't want to delay time by scrolling through the App Store, we've rounded up a list of mobile apps to keep your day running smoothly, from wake-up to sleep. GET OFF TO A GOOD STARTAlarmy Cost: FreeBy now, we know that hitting the snooze button for some extra zzz's doesn't actually give you more energy, and you can start your morning with a pretty unproductive step. So if you absolutely hate waking up in the morning, what should you do? Enter Alarmy, an app that will get your ass out of bed -- literally. There are three separate ways to turn off an overly annoying alarm: shaking, rescuing or snap. Shake your phone like a salt shaker for a given amount of reps giving the forearm a mini workout and gets your blood flowing, making returning to sleep somehow impossible. You're solving a math problem? Easy for some, harder for others, but still gets your brain cells kicking (and it's definitely a better alternative to scrolling social media first thing in the morning). The real repayment, however, is the snap feature, where you need to take pictures of a predetermined location in your house. When you finish one of these, you're very awake. Screenshot via Keelo/ShutterstockKeeloCost: Free, premium plan $12.99/monthNo walking, driving, or by public transport to the gym and back, struggles to turn on the plug machine, I try not to embarrass yourself in front of Arnold Schwarzenegger-bodybuilder-types, odlasci u hall u morning comm dojme K'o teute pass. At the happiness, Keelo allows you to escape the headaches of gymnastics, but that day gives you a vise of energy through high intensity, sweat training, but that's your home. No so much, no questionable gym hygiene, just you and your sweat. And the best part is, the workouts are under 20 minutes -- perfect for squeezing in before you start your day. Dark skyCost: $3.99Housed in storm's in rom-coms, but not so much when you're sprinting home through puddles of water without an umbrella. With the dark sky on the phone, there's no excuses for not knowing what's going to fall from the sky or the temperature, or anything else about the atmosphere. Named as a hyperlocal weather app that uses robotic technology to predict weather, Dark Sky gives you exactly the minute it will start to rain at exactly where you are currently. Screenshot via Stop, Breathe and Think/ShutterstockStop, Breathe & Think Cost: Free, premium membership $9.99/monthSoda hits 2pm, you get tired, you get wrong and generally angry. However, this app provides fast and accessible guided meditation to recenter your mind and body. Easy to use, Stop, Breathe & Think is built for all levels of meditators, from beginners to professionals. Introduction to the text-based app gives the priming the opportunity to learn the basics of meditation. During guided meditations, vibrant images and relaxing sound help users turn off the noise of everyday life. Whether you're relieved of being a co-worker or being exhausted on the subway from work, stop, breathe & Think can give you the inner peace you need for the rest of the day. Things 3Cost: $9.99 (for iPhone)Let's face it, there are hundreds of apps to help you manage your hectic workflow, but none is as pondering and flat-out flexible as Things. Regardless of whether it collects your thoughts or organizes for the week before, Things are a modern to-do list that allows you to set timer and add events to your calendar in just a few taps. Use This Evening to separate tasks that you can check out only at home, simply drag and drop items from one day or list to the next, and add titles to break down major projects into smaller tasks. If you want to top it, the Things app has a very minimalist design, which makes your calendar feel less confusing already. It's ALL ABOUT HOW YOU FINISHScreenshot via Cocktail Flow/ShutterstockCocktail FlowCost: Free, premium subscription $4.99/monthSashing a strong drink on happy hour is fun. The party is also a chill in your house after a long, back-to-back table. Combine your two simultaneous wishes with Cocktail Flow, an app that teaches you how to make a delicious drink right in the comfort of your own kitchen. Find recipes by category, such as strength and even color, and filter by whatever basic spirit you have at home. The free app saves you the cost of tipping waitresses and puts hundreds of different cocktail recipes right at your fingertips to create a small happy hour of your own -- minus the crowds. Just WatchCost: FreeKeeping up with all new releases on Netflix, Hulu, Amazon Prime, HBO, etc., is exhausting. And while it's tempting to give up and just watch Martin's slots, Just Watch lets you immediately check which titles have been added to each streaming service easily by scrolling through home screens Updated weekly, the interface of the application is easy and fast; Simply choose which streaming services to subscribe to and filter results by genre, date, and popularity. The days of IDK, what to watch will disappear (although finding the address of both you and your roommate can agree is still on you). PzizzCost: Free, pro subscription $9.99/monthAll after the shortest days is still hard to release, unmoition and turn off any musing thoughts that keep us awake. For this there is Pzizz, a sleeping app that uses music, various sound effects and a soothing voice to quickly fall asleep, stay in the REM cycle and wake up as a new person. Using advanced algorithm technology (which we won't even try to explain here), Pzizz creates a personalized soundtrack that varies slightly each night, teaching your mind to connect these sounds to rested sleep. Sleep.
